

Silence is the sound made by thirty percent (30%) of the children who have been sexually abused.

Intimidation, trauma, embarrassment, unwarranted guilt. These are just some of the reasons many children do not disclose their abuse.

Can you imagine being a child victim struggling with it on your own? Maybe you can.

You likely know someone who has been sexually abused, so

Please Take 5.

Take 5 minutes to visit childrenscove.org and learn the warning signs of child sexual abuse and the critically important steps to take if you feel a child has been victimized.

“

”

Children's COVE

The Cape & Islands
Child Advocacy Center

childrenscove.org